constitute the building blocks of data networks. The major focus of the chapter is then data link control (i.e., the point-to-point protocols needed to control the passage of data over a communication link). Finally, a number of point-to-point protocols at the network, transport, and physical layers are discussed. There are many similarities

Networks - MIT

The field of data networks has evolved over the last fifteen years from a stage where networks were designed in a very ad hoc and technology-dependent manner to a stage where some broad conceptual understanding of many under-lying issues now exists. The major purpose of this book is to convey that con-

Introduction to Computer Networks and Data Communications Learning Objectives

- Define the basic terminology of computer networks
- Recognize the individual components of the big picture of computer networks
- Outline the basic network configurations
- Cite the reasons for using a network model and how those reasons apply to current network systems

An Introduction to Computer Networks

3 Product Overview Data Networking Solutions Network infrastructure is the backbone of today's technology dependent business environment. However, the exponential growth of big data, explosion of large bandwidth applications, and heavy demands of a global economy are challenging businesses to rethink how they design and support their networks.

PRODUCT OVERVIEW Data Networking Solutions

Our Story Welcome to Data Networks. Since 1983 we've been one of the Mid-Atlantic's premier technology solution providers. We help enterprise customers reduce IT complexity by designing, implementing, supporting, and managing complete solutions for client computing, data center, networking, cloud and managed services.

Data Networks - About Us

data. Using neural networks as a tool, data warehousing firms are harvesting information from datasets in the process known as data mining. The difference between these data warehouses and ordinary databases is that there is actual manipulation and cross-fertilization of the data helping users makes more informed decisions.
